British Attempt To Wipe Out All War Obligations Is Checked by Objections of France.

NEWS AGENCY SEES U. S. ENCOURAGEMENT

BERLIN, June 17.—(UP)—The Telegraph Union Agency reported tonight that President Hoover had sent a cable to delegates at the Lausanne reparations conference saying that, if they reached a "reasonable" solution on the reparations problem, the United States would later be willing to discuss the war debts question.

Y MELVIN K. WHITELEATHER.

LAUSANNE, Switzerland, June 17.—The long-awaited Lausanne conference got under way today with resumed expressions of differences among the major powers, but before the first session ended an agreement was obtained for a stop-gap continuance, in effect, of the Hoover moratorium.

In no way involving the United States, this agreement suspended reparations payments from June 30, the end of the Hoover moratorium, for the duration of the Lausanne conference. This will have the probable effect of prolonging the conference well into July, and reflecting an apparent decision on the part of the statesmen to continue their deliberations on something in the nature of a "permanent settlement" is pending.

The move was initiated by Great Britain and was accepted by France, Italy, Belgium and Japan. The decision, which in no way prejudges any definite agreement, would affect only payments of about $45,000,000 from Germany and her war-time allies, and it continued to the middle of July.

U. S. Unaffected.
Washington dispatches revealed that large payments to the states would be affected by today's Lausanne decision, because none are due until December. It was reiterated at the United States would keep hands off until Europe reached a decision.

Then came the differences of opinion in the speeches of the various delegates. France, under Neville Chamberlain, chancellor of the exchequer, declared himself in favor of the war payments' state clean policy first enunciated in the famous Balfour note several years ago. Premier Edouard Herriot, of France, disagreed.

The French premier accepted a Ger-

INCREASED DEFICIT IS FACED BY CITY

Shrinkage in Tax Digest To Bring Reduction in Municipal Revenue.

Shrinkage of the 1932 city tax digest may cause a $225,000 deficit at the end of this year in spite of heavy pruning of city expenses in the June finance sheet, in which $310,000 was being asked for next year. It was revealed Friday in figures supplied by the city tax assessors to the tax committee of council.

Part of the $225,000 may be made up by defaulters' returns, but there is no assurance that any part of it will be made up, according to J. C. Little, chief of the tax assessors' board. "The next few months will tell the story," Mr. Little said. "If conditions improve, there is a chance that the city will get enough in defaulters' returns to overcome the prospective deficit, but if conditions get any worse there will be a heavy loss of revenue."

The 1932 digest as furnished to the tax committee shows only $375,000, 900 in assessments, whereas the June sheet was based on an anticipated $390,000,000. Unless the deficit is made up by improved conditions, additional adjustments in city expenditures will have to be made in the October finance sheet and a dismal picture will be faced by the city at the beginning of next year, according to Alderman G. E. Millican.

The 1931 digest was $424,000,000 and, on top of these figures the city obtained an additional $200,000 in taxable values through defaulters' returns.

With city income dwindling, employees have received salary cuts and payless vacations. Fifteen-day vacations without pay will begin July 1, but members of the police department, it was announced Friday.

Butler Keeps Silence On Prohibition Plank

NEW YORK, June 17.—(AP)—Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, a leader of the group which proposed a new prohibition repeal plank, returned from the Chicago political meeting to Chicago today.

He said he might make a statement later, but was so pressed with engagements he could not say when that might be.

Congress Votes to Make Kidnaping U. S. Offense

WASHINGTON, June 17.—(AP)—A Senate bill to make interstate kidnaping a federal offense was passed today by the house and sent to the president.

The house approved the measure after defeating an effort to insert a provision to make it possible to impose the death penalty against kidnapers who take their victims across state lines.

The bill as finally approved by congress, provides only imprisonment for this offense.

BEAR' OFFENSIVE AGAINST OWN FIRM IS CHARGED TO FOX

Raskob Said To Have Had Part in Short Pool. Committee Asks Continuation to March 4.

BY FREDERICK G. VONBURG.
WASHINGTON, June 17.—(AP)—A charge that William Fox participated in a short-selling pool in the stock of his own corporation—Fox Theatres—along with John J. Raskob and other well-known figures, was made in the senate stock market investigation today by William A. Gray, committee counsel.

Named as the other individuals who shared in the operations of the pool in 1929 were William F. Keno, Walter P. Chrysler, Joseph E. Higgins, Bradford Ellsworth, Nicholas B. Brady and Mrs. Elizabeth Meehan.

At the conclusion of today's hearings, the committee decided unanimously to ask the senate for authority to continue its stock market investigation through next March 4.

Second Charge.

A second charge made by Gray was that Fox claimed as deductions from his New York state income tax losses which actually were made up by his companies.

A move was made later in the committee to obtain from the treasury complete income tax information on Fox and all others named in the testimony as receiving money from pools or other operations.

Action on the motion was deferred until the committee had opportunity for an executive session, but Chairman Norbeck, republican, South Dakota, said he had been informed it had plenty of authority to obtain such information.

Fox himself was absent as Gray presented the lengthy testimony, although he had come to Washington from New York. Fox, the second day his attorney came to the committee room to say Fox was too ill to appear. The hearing had been postponed from yesterday so that he might testify.

Gray and the Fox attorney, Benjamin Reass, of New York, differed sharply as to whether the organizer of Fox Film and Fox Theater Corporations was able to attend.

Reass, who also represented briefly to its inquiry into Continental Shares, Inc., of Cleveland, about which testimony was presented at length yesterday.

Continental, a former partner of Otis & Co., in which Cyrus Eaton, organizer of Continental Shares, was also a partner, testified that he believed Chase National bank, in October, 1930, used money that was to go to Continental Shares as a loan, to help Otis & Co. out of financial difficulties. Gray contended it did.

Eberstadt added a protest that the inquiry was being conducted more as a prosecution than an investigation, and said the committee "should not be made the dupes of those who promote investigations of this character for their own interest."

"Since the republican convention voted 'to submit the 18th amendment to a referendum,' said Mr. Eberstadt, 'that many republican women will find themselves unwilling to accept this wet compromise under the domination of the democratic party, desiring to hold both wet and dry grounds to their party.'"

The question of law enforcement, she emphasized, is larger than the democratic issue.

Davila Again Heads Chilean Government

"Sane" Socialist Regime Pledged After Bloodless Revolt Wrests Power From "Communists."

SANTIAGO, Chile, June 17.—(UP)—A state of siege was declared in Chile tonight by the new socialist government, headed by Carlos G. Davila, which came into power today through a counter-revolution.

The measure was considered precautionary to give the new government rigid control of the country during the crisis which has brought two successful revolutionary movements in Chile in two weeks.

BY JOHN VIDAL.
SANTIAGO, Chile, June 17.—(UP)—A bloodless revolution in which the only violence was a single blow struck by the butt of a revolver carried by Carlos G. Davila took power in Chile tonight at the head of a "sane" socialist government.

Davila, former ambassador to Washington, head of the socialist revolution two weeks ago but later ousted, was made president of the new revolutionary junta after the overthrow and arrest leaders of the short-lived military regime under Colonel Marmaduke Grove.

The new government established a purely civilian junta, pledged itself to crush the recently growing trend toward communism, announced it would maintain order and respect for property rights, prepared to call a constitutional convention to frame a new governmental structure on "sane" socialist lines and took a moderate attitude toward disposition of the huge American-Chilean nitrate combine.

Colonel Grove, who surrendered at the presidential palace when the army united against him, was charged with the task of restoring order.

DRYS ARE DIVIDED OVER G.O.P. PLANK

One Leader Says Prohibitionists Won While Woman Sees No Victory.

CHICAGO, June 17.—(AP)—A sharp disagreement among dry elements over the acceptance of the republican prohibition plank came to the surface tonight with the statement of the Women's National Council, which is the organization of the drys and listed 14 points where the republicans and their associates agreed.

Mrs. Henry W. Peabody, head of the women's law enforcement group, denied tonight any intention to support a women's prohibition party, but made it clear that if the democratic candidates or platform fail to satisfy "the further solid ground," she sought.

She announced a meeting will be held at Indianapolis July 4, at which the situation will be canvassed and the policy of the dry women will be determined.

"Since the republican convention voted 'to submit the 18th amendment to a referendum,' said Mrs. Peabody, 'that many republican women will find themselves unwilling to accept this wet compromise under the domination of the democratic party, desiring to hold both wet and dry grounds to their party.'"

The question of law enforcement, she emphasized, is larger than the democratic issue.

10 DEAD, 17 MISSING FOLLOWING SERIES OF TANKER BLASTS

Red-Hot Rivet Causes First Explosion on Ship Being Repaired in Montreal Harbor.

MONTREAL, June 17.—(AP)—Ten men were killed and 17 others believed killed today by a series of explosions and raging fire that wrecked the great Vickers drydock and the interior of the oil-tanker Cymbeline, on which a hundred men were working.

At least 65 others were injured and property damage of several million dollars estimated to have been caused. The blasts, following each other with death-dealing suddenness for an hour, sent blazing oil 100 feet into the air, threw men's bodies into the harbor and sent many, their faces torn and bleeding, staggering for safety.

Many with broken arms and others with broken legs dragged themselves from the danger zone as firemen, their chief among the fallen, ignored the ever-present danger of further explosions and poured tons of water into the vessel or tried frantically to rescue the injured companions and workmen.

Fire Chief Raoul Gauthier, former president of the Dominion Fire Chiefs' Association and known for his courage in other disasters, died with three of his subordinates in the second and most terrific of the blasts.

See Comrades Burn.
They were burned to death within sight of their comrades, helpless to fight their way through the raging flames to assist them.

The firemen killed were Paul Hendrickson, J. DeBevoise and J. Hamelin. The six workmen known to be dead were John Ewen, James Wilson, John Riddell, James Corbett, Donald Dunn and William Albert.

The missing men are J. Riley, A. Tudor, R. Gagnon, A. Jones, W. Gillespie, J. Larime, N. Snowden, J. Ford, R. Butt, T. Boone, J. Legge, W. Tardis, K. Rock, Jack Devlin, T. Hulhan, J. Briggs and J. Cardiff.

The search for the bodies was hindered by the intense heat of the Cymbeline's plates, but officials believed the 17 bodies would be found in the torn and twisted interior. An attempt was made to raise the badly damaged drydock, which had been towed here from England, with air pressure. It was partially filled with water as it sank after the detonations.

The Cymbeline's main fuel tanks burst with a roar that awoke most of Montreal's residents and caused widespread excitement along the waterfront.

A hundred men had been detailed to repair the Cymbeline, damaged in grounding in the St. Lawrence river. They were working in the early morning hours when the disaster struck.

Associate of Kreuger Given Pen Term, Fined

STOCKHOLM, June 17.—(UP)—The first sentence in connection with the collapse of the worldwide financial organization built up by the late Ivar Kreuger was pronounced tonight when Director Bror Bregberg was committed to nine months' hard labor.

Bregberg also was ordered to pay $100,000 Swiss francs (about $162,000) compensation to the Finaas Gesellschaft Fur Gel Industrie.

Bregberg was one of half a dozen associates of Kreuger arrested on charges of fraud after the suicide of the Swedish match king in Paris.

Noted Jurist Dead

JUDGE O. H. B. BLOODWORTH.

O. H. B. BLOODWORTH NOTED JUDGE, DIES

Illness Proves Fatal to Member of State Appeals Court.

Judge O. H. B. Bloodworth, of the Georgia court of appeals, died in a hospital Friday from an illness that followed a slight stroke suffered May 23. He had been in declining health for more than a year.

The 72-year-old jurist, known as one of the most studious members of the University of Georgia by the law school, had been on the court of appeals since 1917. He had announced his intention of retiring from the bench at the end of his term this year, on account of his health.

He collapsed May 23 as the result of fatigue following a bus trip to Chattanooga, Tenn. The next day he was taken to the hospital and since then his physician has described his condition as grave, although he rallied slightly many times.

Judge Bloodworth was born September 20, 1859, in Liberty Hall, Pike county, Georgia. His parents were Thomas Stokely Morgan Bloodworth and Frances Caroline Maxey Bloodworth.

He attended high school in Milner, Ga., and Gordon Institute in Barnesville. He was elected to Phi Beta Kappa, national honorary scholastic fraternity while he was a student at the University of Georgia by the law school, where he was graduated in 1880.

In early life he served two terms as mayor of Forsyth, and represented Monroe county in the state legislature in 1892 and 1893. He was solicitor general of the Flint circuit from 1894 to 1903.

Aspirant to Capone Throne Slain After Gangsters Hold 'Convention'

CHICAGO, June 17.—(UP)—With bullets for ballots, curses for speeches and murder for the nomination, Chicago gangsters held their own political convention while the republicans were nominating President Hoover.

The body of the gangster's first nominee, George (Red) Barker, was found today with 36 machine gun bullets in it. Other nominees were chosen and their bodies likely will be found from day to day, an underworld source informed the United Press.

The gangsters met in a Loop hotel suite not far from the Congress, where the republicans worked out the details of Mr. Hoover's nomination. The criminal convention ostensibly was to divide the city into two equal parts for the apportioning of gambling profits between the Capone "syndicate"

RECONSIDERATION MOTION IS MADE AND QUICKLY LOST

Veterans Are Warned Against Violence and Drawbridge Between Camp and Capital Is Raised as Precaution

WASHINGTON, June 17.—(UP)—The senate tonight ruthlessly defeated the $2,400,000 soldier bonus bill, 62 to 18, ignoring thousands of veterans who had marched dramatically from their muddy Anacostia camp to the capitol.

All hope that the bill would be considered again at this session of congress was lost a few moments later when the senate swiftly voted 44 to 26 to table a motion to reconsider the measure immediately.

Five thousand men were massed outside the great stone building as the senators voted one by one, with booming "noes" their refusal to pay veterans of the World War $2,400,000 in war compensation certificates, demanded by the bonus expeditionary force as an unemployment relief measure.

Hundreds of veterans were in the gallery in their overall and shirt sleeves when the clerk announced: "The vote is 62 to 18 and the measure is defeated."

They remained silent and began at once to file out into the dark corridors, to join their comrades outside. Outside the veterans were held closely in order by their leaders. They took their defeat with unexpected fortitude.

They Sing "America."
"America" as they heard news of their defeat.

The handful of police outside had no trouble. Inside the capitol, the companies of police, hidden in the dank cellars out of sight. But they were armed. Police officials late tonight expressed themselves as exceedingly disappointed with the behavior of the veterans.

There was an army band playing on the plaza and it remained silent while the vote was tallied and then blared into lively tunes. The veterans started moving away slowly and thus dissolved one of the gravest situations in recent American history.

Temper of many of the men during the heated hours through which some of them had awaited the vote was not good. Their leaders and congressmen who went out to the great stone staircase, had to appeal to them a score of times for order, and selected men among the regimental leaders of the bonus army kept circulating through urging the men to keep order.

It is so unnecessary to suffer with relief from inorganic salts, because "R. M." will bring relief in three to five minutes. "C." is prepared by a registered pharmacist, compounded on a different principle from most relieving agents in that it contains several ingredients, used by many physicians, blended and proportioned as to accomplish in a few minutes what we have no one drug formula can do in several hours. "R. Morris Plan Company of Georgia Celebrates Twenty-First Anniversary

COMPANY MEETS ACID TEST WITH GREAT STABILITY

Gains Strength During Depression; Ideals and Objectives of Its Founder, the Late W. Woods White, Carried Out.

"To what better use could we possibly put money than by this same program of helping our fellows to help themselves? We must strengthen and inspire rather than depress and impair. To make them objects of charity would enslave, not quicken them with new life; it would make them mendicants and not wholesome members of society. They want only a decent chance."

Not an analysis of present-day social conditions, but in reality the above expressions of economic philosophy were sounded 21 years ago by W. Woods White, first president of the Morris Plan Company of Georgia and recalled today on the twenty-first anniversary of this Atlanta institution.

Referring further to the first annual statement of the Morris Plan Company, prepared by Mr. White in 1911, George Winship, present head of the Morris Plan, pointed to that portion of the first report, which read:

"This plan of helpfulness (the Morris Plan) must stand the acid test of mutual helpfulness or it will not survive."

SURVIVES "ACID TEST"

"Today there are still four members of the Morris Plan board who, as members of the original board, have witnessed the Morris Plan survive that acid test—the acid test of war, panic and depression," Mr. Winship said today.

"These directors, Brooks Morgan, J. Carroll Payne, Francis Kamper and John A. Whitner, have seen the Morris Plan grow and strengthen its position not only in Atlanta but throughout the nation, with the result that after as severe an economic upheaval as the nation has ever witnessed, the Morris Plan of industrial banking has emerged 'without a casualty.'"

Particularly during the trying months since 1929 when the Morris Plan demonstrated its constructive usefulness and its inherent soundness and has continued its loan policy to the fullest possible extent.

"That funds deposited with the Morris Plan and put to work in thousands of individual loans perform a service that is not only useful and constructive, but sound and safe as well, is graphically shown in their statistics of operation," says Mr. Winship.

"The Morris Plan was founded by Arthur J. Morris for the purpose of providing avenues of both credit and thrift to millions of people who, up until that time, were not qualified for banking accommodations, according to the practices then in vogue.

"The commercial banks of that day were interested in corporations, businesses, industries and only a comparatively few favored individuals. The Morris Plan method of industrial banking which is now operating in 131 cities, all local institutions, brought banking facilities to millions of individuals who were scrupulously honest and deserving of recognition but had not previously been eligible for banking credit.

"Since that day of Morris Plan inception the American public has invested and redeemed from time to time a total of more than $1,000,000,000 in Morris Plan savings certificates in the various communities in which banks of the Morris Plan type have been organized. Today the American public holds a total of approximately $80,000,000 worth of these certificates in the separate Morris Plan institutions.

"That the inherent honesty of the average American entitles him to banking credit becomes apparent in studying Morris Plan operation figures, which show that out of a total of $2,522,133 loans totaling $1,805,911.88, less than one-fourth of 1 percent of the amount loaned has been lost through non-payment.

"Today, total resources of all these separate Morris Plan banks and companies exceed $186,000,000, a striking tribute to the honesty of the American wage earner and businessman, for, it was out of meeting their needs that the vast Morris Plan method of banking grew.

"It was the original Morris Plan theory, since proved sound in practice, that as business repays loans out of future profits, the individual should be given a means whereby he could borrow and repay out of future earnings.

LUMBER AND MILL MATERIAL LOWEST SINCE WORLD WAR

Build Homes, Commercial Structures, or Execute Public Projects Now, Advice of Willingham-Tift Lumber Co.

Build now while lumber and mill material, as well as vacant sites, are selling at the lowest prices since 1914! That is the advice of one of the largest and oldest lumber companies in this section—Willingham-Tift Lumber Company, located at 866 Murphy avenue, S. W.

This company, of which William B. Willingham, vice president, and William B. Willingham Jr., secretary and treasurer, is recognized as one of the most conservative lumber and mill supply companies in the south. It started more than 28 years ago as a tiny affair, and today covers an area of more than 11 acres.

According to T. E. Foster, of the company, this is the most logical time in decades to build a home, commercial structure, or to execute public projects.

"All materials of the best quality are selling at least 30 per cent below prices of three years ago, while land lots are available at relatively low prices," he said. For instance, he pointed out, a lot that three years ago sold for $3,500 is obtainable today for $1,200, or less.

ALL KINDS OF SERVICE.
The company handles lumber, mill work material, lime, plaster and roofing. Upon request the company will draw architect plans, furnish paint and do all other necessary things in the completion of the erection of a home or commercial building. Experts will gladly estimate, free of cost, plans for all kinds of construction.

The Willingham-Tift Company draws its huge stocks of lumber and accessories from all parts of the country.

The more generally used lumber and materials are obtained from Georgia, Alabama, Florida and Mississippi, while hardwood and other higher-grade lums are drawn from Cuba, South America, Philippine Islands, some being shipped from California, Washington, Idaho, Wisconsin and Michigan.

EXPANDS WITH ATLANTA.
Some of the finest homes in Atlanta and this section were made from material purchased from this company. Through years of consistent and efficient service and handling of the highest grade material available at the lowest possible price, the company has expanded with the growth and development of Atlanta and the state.

S. A. L. ANNOUNCES LOW FARES FOR JULY 4 HOLIDAYS

The unusually low-priced excursion fares announced by the Seaboard Air Line railway for the Fourth of July holidays will afford an opportunity for many Georgians to visit Washington, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh and New York. These rates which are effective from Athens, Ga., on July 1 and 2 are as follows: Washington $7; Philadelphia, $14; Pittsburgh, $16; and New York, $15. Passengers holding Washington tickets can remain at the capital until 6:40 p. m., July 4, the other destinations carrying a limit of July 5, by which date return trip must begin before midnight. The Pullman Company is co-operating with the Seaboard in connection with this low-priced excursion by offering lower berth for the round trip from Athens to Washington for $9 and to New York for $11. These round-trip Pullman fares are only slightly higher than the regular one-way lower berth rate between these points.

Coal consumers were advised Friday by R. D. Snider, manager of the coal department of the Atlantic Ice & Coal Corporation, to place their orders for their requirements during the remainder of the year now.

There is every indication that the price of coal will be increased about July 1," Mr. Snider said. "If orders are placed at delivered this month, consumers will be protected against any increase in prices."

Furthermore, by placing orders now at the summer-time prices, they are able to give consumers better attention than later in the year.

The Atlantic Ice & Coal Corporation, the largest ice and coal organization in the southeast, maintains six yards in addition to the main ice, coal and cold storage plant at the headquarters of the corporation, located at 109 Washington Street viaduct. The substations are located in Decatur, East Point, Boulevard, Thorndale street, West End, Brookwood—one in each neighborhood.

HIGHER PRICES SEEN.
Mr. Snider declared that there are several fundamental reasons why the price of coal will be higher this fall and winter than the rates now prevailing, especially in view of the material curtailment of production at mines complete suspension of activity in many fields and higher railroad rates, not to mention weather statistics, which indicate that this will be a severe cold winter.

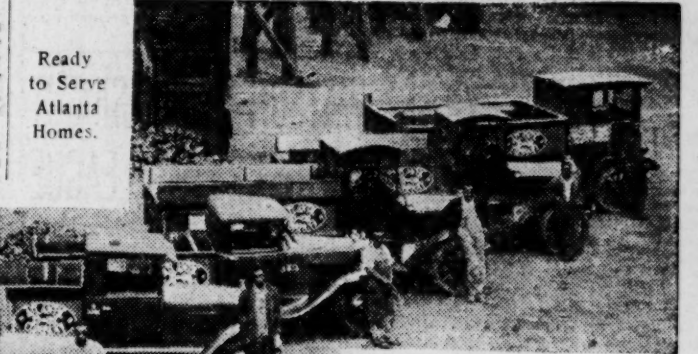

"Last winter was the warmest in history of the Atlanta weather bureau, and the winter previous was the coldest in history," Mr. Snider pointed out. "Statistics reveal that there has not been two consecutive mild winters in the last half of a century."

The company is carrying a wide variety of coal than ever before. "We can give consumers better preparation in the summer by grades and in delivery," Mr. Snider said.

SAVE BY BUYING NOW.
"Employers have ample time to take the slack from the coal during the summer, which is a difficult task in the winter when coal and slack get damp and stick. Also, deliveries can be made to suit the convenience of consumers who are given 30, 60 and 90 days to pay their bills, or a discount of 20 cents a ton cash on delivery. The present prices for charge accounts range from $5.25 to $6, or $4.75 to $5.50 for cash."

"Even should the price of coal remain at the present level during the remainder of the year, consumers will save money by placing their orders now," Mr. Snider said. "If for no other reason than by receiving carefully selected grades, delivered at consumers' convenience and avoiding the rush period during the cold winter months."

UTILITIES SYSTEM DUBBED UNLAWFUL

Public Service Commission Says Associated Gas Violated Law.

NEW YORK, June 17.—(AP)—In announcing the results of its investigations into practices and accounts of the operating companies of the Associated Gas & Electric system, the public service commission said today it had found the "letter as well as the spirit of the public service law" has been violated.

The commission's investigations dealt principally with the charges of overpayments for managerial, engineering, accounting and other "services" made to the operating companies controlled by the associated system by affiliated non-utility service companies and corporations, and the relationship between the operating utilities and the so-called service companies.

In its report, the commission disclosed that during 1930 and 1931 the New York operating utilities of the Associated System were charged a total of $7,708,906.54 by nine affiliated service companies for "services," and "system" expenses, as follows:

W. S. Barstow & Company, $1,498,555.75; Utility Management Corporation, $2,016,606.18; Utilities Purchasing & Supply Corporation, $207,434.96; expenses of those three companies, $421,414.44; Public Utilities Appliance Corporation, $1,281,731.94; "System" expenses, $1,214,080.93; H. H. Hopper & Company, Inc., $449,116.37; Daniel Starch and staff, $123,322.55; Mid-State Fuel Corporation, $606,043.32.

"These transactions," the report said, "are improper and not in the public interest."

The commission said it would order the operating companies "not to permit or require their employees to devote any of their working time to the sale or exchange of securities not actually issued by the operating utilities by which they are employed."

VON-FLYER TO GET U. S. AVIATION CROSS

SAN DIEGO, Cal., June 17.—(AP)—Sergeant Hilmer N. Turner, non-flying marine corps clerk, was presented the navy's distinguished flying cross today for landing a plane in which he was a passenger after the pilot, Staff Sergeant Oris S. Hoffer, at the risk of his own on the night March 22.

Hoover Receives Congratulations, Makes Plans for Long Campaign

BY JOHN F. CHESTER.

WASHINGTON, June 17.—(AP)—Congratulations by the hundreds, in both oral and telegraphic form, today poured in upon the White House while President Hoover himself reflected an air of apparent satisfaction at his re-nomination as he set about making campaign plans. The president greeted his running mate, Vice President Curtis, with a hearty handshake as he entered the executive mansion during the morning. He listened to first-hand convention reports from two of his cabinet officers just returned from the Chicago front, and gave commendation of the party action in return.

ASPIRANT SLAIN BY GANG GUNS

George (Bugs) Moran appeared with "Klondyke" O'Donnell and Charles (Bub) Quillan to demand a third of the gambling money in Chicago. Moran, it was said, had recovered from the terror of the St. Valentine Day massacre when seven of his henchmen were killed by machine gunners. He demanded that his new gang, the "Irish Boys," be declared in any possible illicit revenues.

The convention thus broke up in a battle of words. The dividing of Chicago was abandoned. "Bugs," "Red" and Nitti vowed that they would operate gambling in Chicago and in Cicero, the notorious western suburb, without help of each other.

Most of the gambling houses closed. The keepers dared not risk their lives. The small-time racketeers peddled liquor to republican convention visitors. The "big shots" were swearing revenge. They walked in terror, all but Barker, whose swaggering bravado had caused him to be nicked by bullets frequently in the past.

Last night he walked down Crawford avenue on Chicago's west side. A window opened in a second-floor flat. The nose of a submachine gun poked out. It barked 36 times. Each bullet reached its mark. The assassins had lost none of their old-time experience.

Police said the "job" looked as if it had been done by Nitti. As "the enforcer" for Capone during the latter's heyday, Nitti devised the "second-floor front" method of murder.

Other information, however, said that Moran's "Irish Boys" might be arrested with better results if the police really wanted to find the killers. The bluecoats issued a blanket order for apprehension of all those known to have attended the convention. Nine hours after the slaying, the machine gun was found in a nearby vacant lot. It was battered and worn, as if it had been used many times before.

The "nomination" of Barker left Moran and Nitti as candidates. Police said they would not be surprised if either, or both, were killed before the underworld politicians selected their next president by the elimination method.

man declaration that Germany could not meet payments now being made.

Conditional Offer.
Mr. Chamberlain brought in his offer to wipe the slate clean "provided all governments concerned will do the same."

M. Herriot rose to state that he wanted the German people to understand that France is not seeking the difficulties of other nations but is trying to work for the common good and the common peace.

"It is wrong to think that sudden cancellation would restore economic equilibrium," he said. "To do this it is necessary to establish security. There is no political peace without economic peace and vice versa."

"More important than debts and reparations is the modification of tariffs, quotas and other trade restrictions. We make our share only in the spirit of justice which we wish for every nation."

When adjournment was taken it was understood plenary debate would be continued next Tuesday.

cratic meeting here June 27 would adopt a plank favoring submission of the question of prohibition repeal to the states, but would not go on record as a party for repeal.

Shouse, first of the democratic leaders to arrive, said there might be a floor battle over the wording of the prohibition plank, but he believed most of this controversy has been smoothed out in advance.

He said more than 50 prohibition planks had been received, most of them "very, very wet" and with the "trend toward repeal."

An informal meeting of an unofficial resolutions committee will be held next Thursday, he said, to draw up a tentative platform in an effort to save time. Some 40 state delegations have notified him of selections of resolutions committee members.

The national committee, he added, would meet next Friday to hear the tests from Minnesota, Porto Rico and Louisiana. No official notice of the Louisiana contests has yet been received.

ANTI-SALOON LEAGUE TO WITHHOLD COMMENT

BLOOMINGTON, Ill., June 17.—(UP)—The Anti-Saloon League's attitude toward the republican party prohibition plank will be announced after the democratic convention, according to P. Scott McBride, national superintendent of the league.

He did not want to discuss the attitude of the league on the subject at this time.

He pointed out that congress and not the parties make the laws and declared "we can win the next congress, where the issue must be settled."

ALABAMA DELEGATION MAY NUMBER 29 THIS YEAR

JASPER, Ala., June 17.—(AP)—Alabama today faced the prospect of sending a delegation of 29 with its 24 votes to the democratic national convention at Chicago instead of the usual 28.

The official count of votes cast in Tuesday's "run off" showed that Judge Victor Carmichael, Jasper, and James F. Hester, Russellville, candidates for delegate from the ninth congressional district, were tied with 6,291 votes.

HULL AND MCKELLAR FAVORED IN TENNESSEE

NASHVILLE, Tenn., June 17.—(AP)—Roosevelt headquarters for this state announced today that a majority of Tennessee's delegates to the democratic national convention favored United States Senator Cordell Hull as Tennessee's member of the resolutions and platform committee.

A majority also favored United States Senator K. D. McKellar for chairman of the Tennessee delegation, said former Governor Benton McMillin, Roosevelt's manager for Tennessee.

BISHOP CANNON SEES NO PLEDGE IN PLANK

WASHINGTON, June 17.—(AP)—Commenting on the republican prohibition plank, Bishop James Cannon Jr., of the Methodist Episcopal church, south, issued a statement today saying the convention did not "pledge any nominee of the party to follow any specific course."

court of appeals decided immediately to adjourn until Monday as a mark of respect.

The funeral of Judge Bloodworth will be at 3 o'clock, central standard time, Sunday afternoon at the First Baptist church of Forsyth, Governor Richard B. Russell Jr., and the judges of the supreme court and the court of appeals forming an honorary escort.

The body will lie in state in the church from 2 o'clock until 3. Dr. Louis D. Newton, pastor of the Druid Hills Baptist church, of Atlanta, of which Judge Bloodworth was a member, will conduct the service. He will be assisted by the Rev. H. E. Warnock, pastor of the Forsyth First Baptist church, and by Dr. Amelia Chamlee, president of Bessie Tift College, of which Judge Bloodworth was chairman of the board of trustees. The burial will be in the Forsyth cemetery.

When news of Judge Bloodworth's death reached Governor Richard B. Russell Jr., he issued the following statement to the press:

"Death has again visited the official family of Georgia and laid its heavy hand on a valued judge of the court of appeals.

"Judge Bloodworth was an able and zealous public servant and his passing is a great loss to the judiciary of Georgia. He was well known all over the state and was loved by an unusually large circle of personal friends who will mourn his death.

"His opinions were highly regarded by the bar of the state and constitute an imperishable monument to his labor of love on behalf of his people."

OFFICE RIDDEN.

It is an historic fact that for the past fifty years or more the national conventions of the republican party have been dominated by office-holders, going as delegates to take direct instructions from the administration.

This has never been more apparent than in the convention just held. It was not representative of the rank and file of the party nor did its actions voice the will of the great mass of republicans of the country.

The prohibition straddle was put through very largely by office-holders under the pressure of the White House. Had the delegates been left free to cast their votes according to their judgment, there would have been no such shameless straddle as that adopted.

These hand-picked delegates were there to serve the will of the bosses, not the people. They wanted repeal instead of resubmission, but they promptly danced to the tune of orders from the White House. They dared not do otherwise.

This evil of officially dominated delegates going to the national conventions, with strings tied to their collars reaching all the way from the convention hall to the White House, or the offices of the departmental heads, has grown to such proportions that it has become a national menace. Neither party is exclusively responsible, although the abuse of the system has been very much more flagrant with the republicans than with the democrats.

Federal office-holders, appointed either by the president or by departmental heads, should by law be denied the right to participate as delegates in any national convention, whether democratic or republican.

Such a law would remove one of the most serious obstacles in the way of free, frank and unfettered expression by the people through their delegates at the national conventions of the two great parties.

THE LURE OF THE WOODS.

With the coming of the vacation season the residents of the territory within a day's jaunt of the cool, health-producing mountains of North Georgia will be able to reach beauty spots in the hills this year with greater ease. And when they have reached the shady confines of the mountains they will find greater conveniences at rates never before known.

Likewise the sea coast offers an economical playground to which the people of the state can wend their way to seek renewed health from the ocean breezes and out-of-doors exercise of various kinds.

It is not necessary that city dwellers dispense with a vacation this year because of restricted revenues. Accommodations can be secured in the mountains or on the sea coast for but little more than the cost of food and other household operating expenses—and with in such short distance that the head of the family can spend the weekends with his wife and children without neglect his business.

Comfortable lodgings, a day's building food and as good summer climate as is to be found in America are in touch of the people of Georgia.

Fishing, hiking and horseback riding invite those weary by long months in the city, and rest and relaxation for weary nerves can be found in the cool and shady

THE WORLD'S WINDOW

BY PIERRE VAN PAASSEN.

Rest a While!

The Racists are a French family. They live at Saint Germain in the Forest. Their house wouldn't come up to requirements with a modern housing commission. The straw roof leaks here and there. When you sit in the kitchen-dining room in the winter time, you can see the six or seven cows munching hay and hear them slobber in the water from the trough. The horses can almost reach the table when they stretch their necks from their stalls. On the ceiling hang hams and sausages and strings of onions. At night they light the oil lamp at the Racis.

Twice a week the huge cart leaves for the market at Poissy. Poissy is twenty miles away and old Racis drives himself, he leaves at nine in the evening, wraps himself in a blanket and promptly goes to sleep. The horses know the way and keep to the right. He's back the next day at two in the afternoon. Then there are mysterious doings. He goes into the bedroom and hides the money he has received for his vegetables and produce. You hear stealthy clink of coins on stone from the other room. He must have a hole there somewhere under the long red flag.

When I called last at the Racis home, the president of France had just been murdered the day before. Paris was all excitement. The old man said, "I'll clean up my act."

"Sapristi!" he said, when I told him of the assassination, "sapristi," he was the clerk who remained unchanged all the comment he made. I could see there was something on his mind. But it took a long time before he came out with it.

"Compre," he said at last, "you were raised on a farm. How about helping me tonight? I expect a fool to be here. I'll give you 25 francs, what do you say?"

I left the farm at dawn 25 francs richer, one dollar and a half. I was a different person. I was a different person.

It is unthinkable that the weak and the strong, the aged and the young alike, shall be faced with starvation and suffering when their care will not place an overly heavy burden upon their fellow citizens.

Something must be done and done AT ONCE to meet this situation!

Banks are more intelligent than average businessmen, declares an economist. Well, it cannot be denied that they "no" more.

AN UNBEARABLE BURDEN.

Appropriations for the 1933 budget passed by congress, or practically assured of passage, reach the staggering total of $3,173,570,529, according to a compilation made by the house committee on appropriations. To these special appropriations must be added the annual running appropriations fixed by previous congresses, making the bill to the taxpayers for government next year reach the huge sum of $4,459,000,000.

Neither the United States nor any other country can stand any such crippling burden of taxation. When state and local taxes are added to this federal total for 1933, a situation is presented which is tantamount to confiscation of business and private wealth.

It would not be so bad if the taxpayers were getting commensurate returns in governmental service for their money, but they are not. With an increase of four or five hundred per cent in taxation in a comparatively few years, government is in most cases less efficient and less beneficial than it was when it cost less than a fourth of the amount it does now.

There is no possible excuse for the unreasonable and unbearable burden of taxation which is being heaped upon the backs of an already overburdened people. The limit has been reached and passed and the time has come when we must have a reorganization of governmental expenses that will put the administration of public affairs on the same sane and sound basis as that of private business.

THE WORLD'S WINDOW

BY PIERRE VAN PAASSEN.

Rest a While!

The Racists are a French family. They live at Saint Germain in the Forest. Their house wouldn't come up to requirements with a modern housing commission. The straw roof leaks here and there. When you sit in the kitchen-dining room in the winter time, you can see the six or seven cows munching hay and hear them slobber in the water from the trough. The horses can almost reach the table when they stretch their necks from their stalls. On the ceiling hang hams and sausages and strings of onions. At night they light the oil lamp at the Racis.

Twice a week the huge cart leaves for the market at Poissy. Poissy is twenty miles away and old Racis drives himself, he leaves at nine in the evening, wraps himself in a blanket and promptly goes to sleep. The horses know the way and keep to the right. He's back the next day at two in the afternoon. Then there are mysterious doings. He goes into the bedroom and hides the money he has received for his vegetables and produce. You hear stealthy clink of coins on stone from the other room. He must have a hole there somewhere under the long red flag.

When I called last at the Racis home, the president of France had just been murdered the day before. Paris was all excitement. The old man said, "I'll clean up my act."

"Sapristi!" he said, when I told him of the assassination, "sapristi," he was the clerk who remained unchanged all the comment he made. I could see there was something on his mind. But it took a long time before he came out with it.

"Compre," he said at last, "you were raised on a farm. How about helping me tonight? I expect a fool to be here. I'll give you 25 francs, what do you say?"

I left the farm at dawn 25 francs richer, one dollar and a half. I was a different person. I was a different person.

It is unthinkable that the weak and the strong, the aged and the young alike, shall be faced with starvation and suffering when their care will not place an overly heavy burden upon their fellow citizens.

Something must be done and done AT ONCE to meet this situation!

Letters From a Bald-Headed Dad to a Flapper Daughter

BY ROBERT QUILLEN

My dear Louise:

You are cheerful by nature and habit, and you have an uncommon capacity for happiness, but you have one weakness that causes you a lot of unnecessary misery.

You are filled with rebellion and resentment when the world doesn't match your ideal of what it should be.

And that means you haven't yet learned the most important of life's lessons.

Don't consider anything but the editor of the American Magazine, took his baby daughter to a restaurant frequented by New York's bankers and business potentates.

In that atmosphere of unbending dignity and solemn egoism, the baby created a sensation. Her manners, Mr. Derieux said later, were perfect. And then he added: "That is, perfect baby manners. She ate with her fingers."

To understand that, my dear, is the beginning of wisdom.

The job of creating this world wasn't finished in seven days. It is still being created. It is evolving constantly. And the things that seem to be wrong are merely uncompleted things.

Growth and action are constant, and reaction inevitable. And everything that exists, including people, is precisely as it should be and must be at its present stage of development.

You don't condemn a house because it is only half finished. You don't find fault with an acorn because it hasn't yet become an oak. You realize that the bud must come before the flower, the grub before the butterfly.

Why, then, do you see fault anywhere? Everything in the world about you is the natural result of yesterday. And today it merely presents another stage of growth. It is imperfect only in the sense that a colt is an imperfect horse.

Once you see the truth, you can enjoy the world as it is.

HUMPHRIES FINES HARRELSON $25

Attorney Sharply Rebuked, Cited for Contempt in Alimony Hearing.

A tiff between J. Ira Harrelson, Atlanta attorney and president of the city board of education, and Judge John D. Humphries, senior judge of the Fulton superior court, resulted Friday in Harrelson being cited for contempt of court and paying a $25 fine after apocryphal to the court.

The action came at the conclusion of an alimony hearing when Judge Humphries awarded $62.50 alimony to Mrs. Walter Allen, Harrelson, who represented Allen, said that the court might as well send Allen to jail for contempt of court as he had no job and no money with which to pay the alimony.

Judge Humphries cautioned Mr. Harrelson that this statement in open court before his client was tantamount to advising him to avoid payment of the alimony and said, "I will give the defendant an opportunity to pay the alimony and will then send him to jail if he fails to do so. I will remember, in hearing the case, what counsel for the defendant has advised."

"But I'm not advising him, your honor, he just can't pay it," replied Harrelson.

"I will remember that," replied the court.

"I'll remember that when you run again," Harrelson rejoined heatedly.

Judge Humphries then ordered Harrelson to pay $100 for contempt of court and ordered him taken from the courtroom by a deputy sheriff. Later he allowed Harrelson to appear before him when the attorney signified he wished to make an apology.

When he had made his apology Harrelson asserted that he had thought he told Judge Humphries: "You remember when I campaigned against you for election."

Judge Humphries told him that if he had made this statement it would have been worse than the one he thought he had made. "The first is holding a political rod over the court in an effort to intimidate him, while the latter would be accusing the court of corruption and being biased, influenced and prejudiced."

"Your offense is one of the grossest of contempt and is inexcusable. I won't say unpardonable, for I must accept your apology. However, I cannot let it be passed over lightly." And he reduced the fine to $25 to be paid by noon today with the alternative of five days in jail as the penalty for non-payment.

Later in the day the fine was paid to the sheriff, it was learned.

SELF-INFLICTED WOUND FATAL TO JOHN RUSH

John A. Rush, street car operator, who shot himself last Tuesday night at his home at 110 Waddell street, died Friday afternoon at a private hospital where he was taken. He was 48 years old and had been employed by the Georgia Power Company for 20 years.

According to reports Rush left the living room, where he had been sitting with members of his family, and went into an adjoining bedroom. A few minutes later the family heard a shot and ran in the bedroom to discover Rush unconscious on the floor. He was taken to the hospital in a Greenberg ambulance. At the hospital he regained consciousness for a time, but did not make a statement as to how he was wounded.

Investigating officers said a pistol, recently cleaned and oiled, was found on the floor beside the wounded man. Members of the family told police Rush was in good health and spirits and had no reason to shoot himself. The report officers turned in to headquarters was "attempted suicide."

Rush is survived by his wife, two daughters, Miss Inez and Miss Fannie Bell Rush; a son, James C. Rush, of Atlanta; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. James C. Rush, of Calhoun, S. C., and four brothers and one sister. He was a member of the Woodmen of the World, local No. 732.

Funeral services and interment will take place in Greenwood, S. C., his former home, where services will be taken today. Autry & Lowndes are in charge.

SEEDSMEN ELECT OFFICERS TODAY, END CONVENTION

Delegates to the Southern Seedsmen Association's convention at the Biltmore hotel Friday heard addresses on types of seeds and on traffic problems and garden clubs as they attended the second day's session of the meeting.

Talks during the morning were given by Miss Elizabeth M. Blodger, of El Monte, Cal., on "Flower Seed Novelties and Important Strains"; Donald M. Hastings, of Atlanta, on "Vegetable Seed Novelties"; William P. Wood Jr., of Richmond, Va., on "Field, Grass and Clover Seed"; and Mrs. Robert L. Cooney, of Atlanta, on "The Garden Club Movement, What Members Want and Expect from Seedsmen."

The afternoon program included addresses by Donald S. Payson, of Washington, D. C., on "Traffic Problems," and Dr. H. H. Page, of Atlanta, on "Slide Rule Budgeting for the Seed Business." Friday's activities ended with the annual banquet, which was held on the Biltmore hotel terrace.

Featuring today's session, which will conclude the convention, will be the election and installation of officers, and an inspection and barbecue at the H. G. Hastings plantation and trial grounds near Lovejoy, Ga., at noon.

HIGH COURT UPHOLDS VERDICT ON BROTHERS

Four Newton county brothers convicted of a joint criminal assault upon a woman who owned the land upon which they lived must serve prison sentences imposed in Newton superior court in 1931, the state supreme court ruled Friday.

The brothers and the length of sentences received are Albert Fouts, 10 to 20 years; Charlie Fouts, 8 to 20 years; Emmett Fouts, 16 to 20 years; and J. C. Fouts, 2 to 12 years.

On the Air Today

Jonett Shouse, chairman of the democratic national committee, will speak during the Columbia Institute of Public Affairs broadcast over the WABC-Columbia network tonight from 8:15 to 8:45. He announced that his subject will be "What the Republicans Have Left Undone." The democratic leader will speak from the Chicago studios.

A demonstration of electrical novelties presented by Orestes H. Caldwell, editor and engineer, and a description of the running of the Brooklyn Handicap at Aqueduct, New York, by Thomas Bryan George, turf commentator, will be the "spot" events to be heard over the WABC-Columbia network on Saturday, June 18.

Electrical gadgets, described as a "voice beautifier for political speakers" and an "applause meter," will be demonstrated for the first time by Orestes H. Caldwell, editor, engineer and former radio commissioner, in another of his novel broadcasts over the WABC-Columbia network and WGST tonight at 8:45 o'clock.

Caldwell says the "voice beautifier" will smooth the vocal roughness of a dock foreman or lend masculine charm to a pink-tea orator. The "applause meter," if used at political conventions, is calculated to eliminate wearisome balloting.

Thomas Bryan George, Columbia's turf commentator, will describe the running of the Brooklyn Handicap at Aqueduct, New York, from 1:30 to 2 o'clock this afternoon over the WABC-Columbia network. The Brooklyn, a four-mile and a furlong (total one-eighth miles) race for 3-year-olds and older horses, will carry close to $15,000 in prizes. The entries will be made from an outstanding field of horses, including the 3-year-old, Fairmont, winner of the recent rich Belmont stakes; W. R. Coe's Oscutator and Pompeius; and the C. V. Whitney filly, Top Flight.

Funeral services will be held at 10 o'clock this morning for Jack Gerard, 21-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. J. I. Gerard, 215 McCoy street, Decatur, who was fatally injured late Thursday afternoon when he was struck by an automobile driven by Mrs. L. H. Hein, of 1088 Ponce de Leon avenue. Rites will be conducted at the chapel of Harry R. Fouts, and interment will be in West View cemetery.

The only child of the Gerards, Jack was struck down as his mother looked on. The accident occurred in the 900 block of Ponce de Leon avenue, while the child had left his mother's car and was proceeding to the sidewalk. Witnesses including Mrs. Gerard, advised Mrs. Hein of responsibility.

ILLNESS HERE FATAL TO J. W. HODGE, 48

J. W. Hodge, 48, prominent farmer and peach grower of Henderson, Ga., died shortly before midnight Thursday at the Georgia Baptist hospital. He was brought to the hospital here for treatment June 17.

Widely known in Houston county, Mr. Hodge was one of the most progressive farmers in the section. He is survived by his wife; two sons, Warren and Hardin Hodge; a half-brother, Paul Hodge, and a half-sister, Mrs. Sarah Haywood, of Statesboro. The body was taken Friday to Uddilla, Ga., for funeral services and interment.

BARBECUE AND PARTY GIVEN PILOT MEMBERS

Convention Will End Today With Election of Officers for Next Year.

Delegates attending the international convention of Pilot Clubs, which concludes its sessions at the Biltmore hotel today with the election of officers and the choice of the 1933 convention city, were entertained Friday at a barbecue in the afternoon and a surprise party at night.

The barbecue was given at the home of Dr. and Mrs. J. E. Garner, 351 Collier road, N. W., and the party was given in the Pompeian room of the Biltmore for the visiting delegates by the husbands and friends of Atlanta Pilots.

Discussion of club problems and the report of the nominating committee featured Friday afternoon's meeting. Bids for the 1933 convention were made by El Paso, Texas, where the convention was held two years ago, and by Panama City, Fla.

This morning's session, which will be opened with a president's and secretaries' breakfast, with Mrs. Robert Chapman, of El Paso, Texas, international secretary, presiding, will

Major Charles A. Wynn, Atlanta, Cited for Service Against Sandino

WASHINGTON, June 17.—The secretary of the navy has awarded special letters of commendation to Major Charles Arthur Wynn, U. S. M. C., of St. Peachtree circle, Atlanta, for valiant service in Nicaragua. Major Wynn who is now on duty at naval air station, Pensacola, Fla., was commended for service as an aviation observer in the republic of Nicaragua during 1930.

In company with Corporal John Ambers Paul Brown, of Greenville, S. C., and other commissioned and non-commissioned officers, Major Wynn as a party of an airplane patrol, encountered and developed a hostile group of bandits estimated at from 200 to 600 under Sandino, on Saragosa mountain.

"The observers in planes," said Secretary Adams in making the awards, include the report of the resolutions committee and the election of officers. Miss Doris Van Aller, of Mobile, Ala., will be the principal speaker at the breakfast. The convention will end tonight with the annual banquet at the Brookhaven Country Club, followed by a dance.

EMMETT A. WILLIAMS, OF WARM SPRINGS, DIES

Pioneer Organizer of Roosevelt-for-President Clubs Succumbs Here.

Emmett A. Williams, who for many years was mayor of Warm Springs and who was one of the first men in Georgia to conceive the idea of forming organizations to support Franklin D. Roosevelt for the presidency, died in a private hospital in Atlanta Friday after a brief illness. Mr. Williams was 61 years of age.

A close friend of the New York governor, Mr. Williams was among the pioneer group of Meriwether county citizens to organize the first of the "Roosevelt-for-President" clubs. As the result of this pioneer movement, similar organizations developed all over the United States.

Until 15 years ago Mr. Williams had been mayor of Warm Springs, having served several terms. He was a member of one of the oldest families in that section of the state and was widely known in other parts of Georgia. For the last 15 years he had served under the prison commission of Georgia.

Surviving are his wife; three sons.

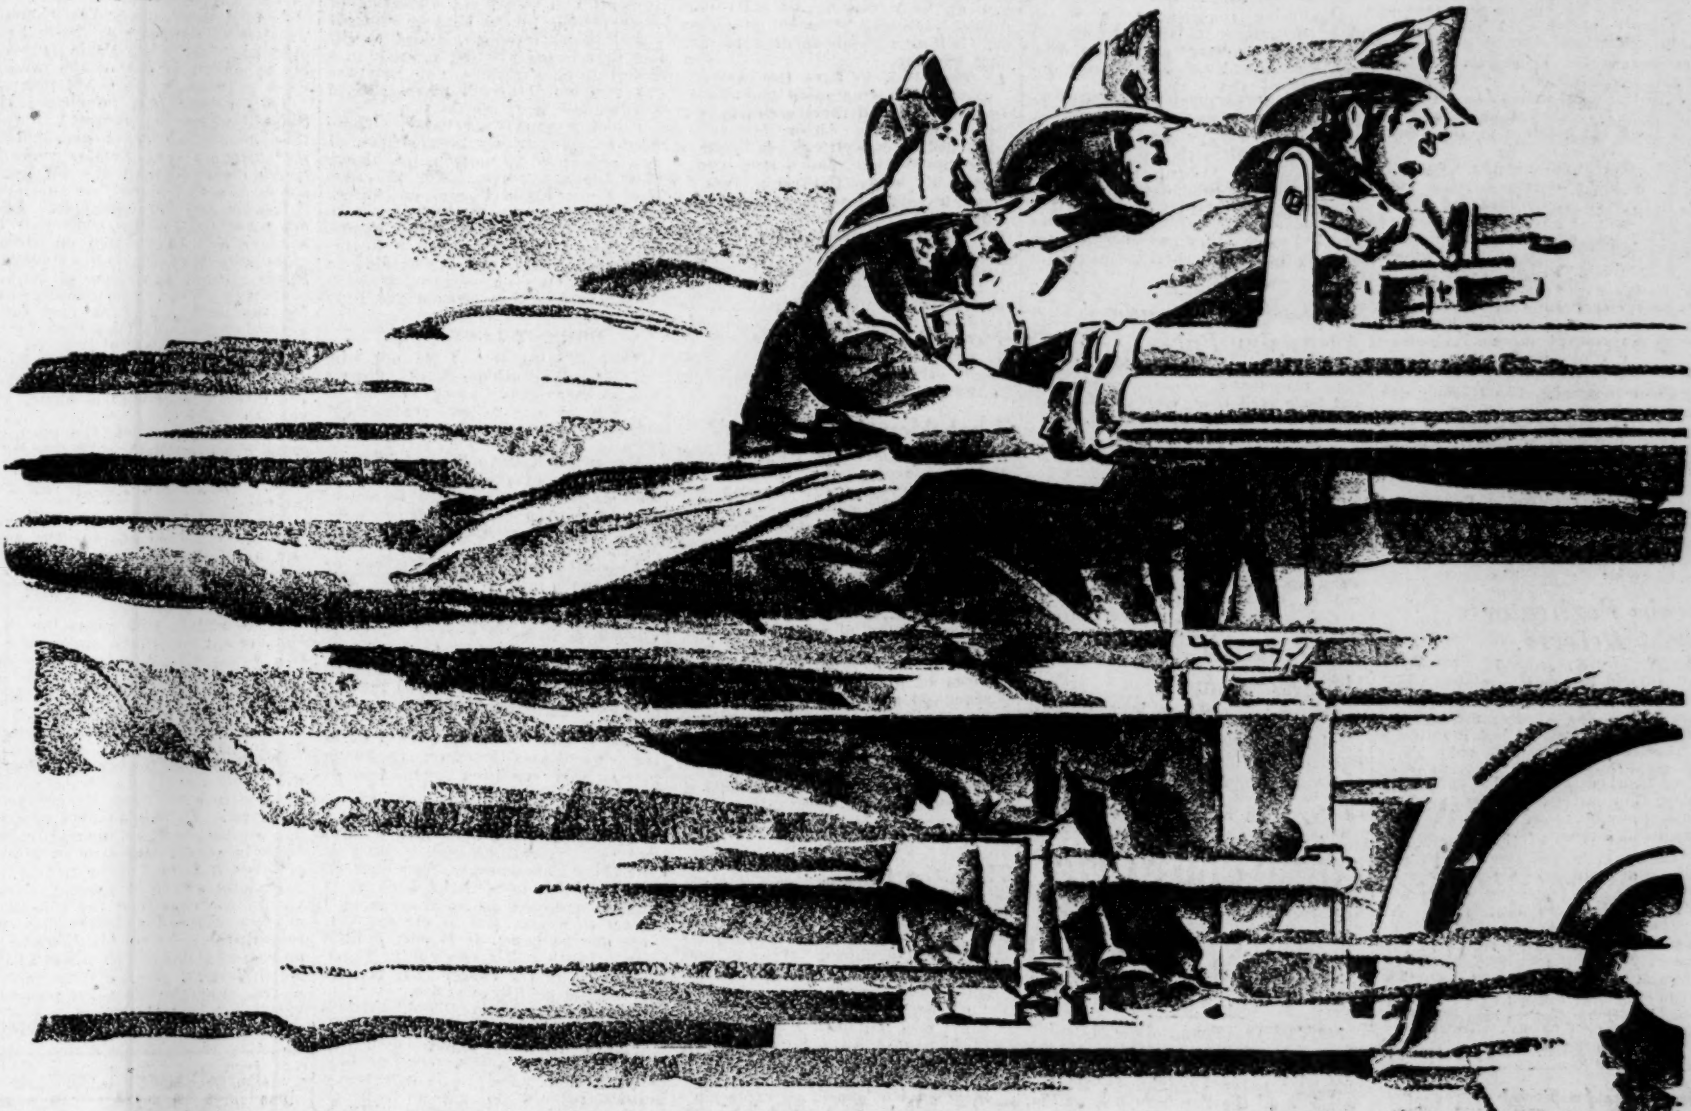

REGENSTEIN'S GIVES ITS ANNUAL OUTING

When the executives and employees of Regenstein's left their work Friday afternoon they proceeded directly to Idlewood, where they enjoyed during the evening the company's annual outing.

Swimming, dancing and amusing racing events were enjoyed by the guests, who numbered about 100. Refreshments were served. It was voted one of the best recreational stunts ever pulled by the company.

Y. W. C. A. Evening Swimming Class Opens Thursday, June 23

Advance swimming pupils in the Y. W. C. A. evening classes will be put in a new class held Thursday evenings from 7 to 8:30 o'clock and Mrs. C. E. Drummond is swimming instructor. The regular classes from 6:30 to 7 o'clock on Mondays, Tuesdays and Wednesdays have gained in popularity, as business girls hasten to perfect their swimming stroke before going on vacation trips. Diving is included in the advanced Thursday class.

Other classes for adults are held 10:30 to 11 o'clock on Tuesdays, Wednesdays and Thursdays; 3:30 to 4 o'clock on Mondays, Tuesdays and Wednesdays; and 4 to 4:30 on Saturdays. A special class for little boys up to the age of 12 years is held on Thursdays from 4 to 4:30 o'clock. A new class in junior life saving will be organized immediately on Mondays from 3:30 to 4:30. The following young ladies have successfully passed the junior life-saving test during the past week: Ann Kendrick, Helen Jarman, Dorothy Argue and Virginia Alexander.

Colorful posters in the lobby of the administration building at 74 Auburn avenue, advertise the fact that "More Joy, More Health, More Spirit" is gained by swimming in the Y. pool and that "The Plunge That Refreshes" brings joy and enjoyment and pleasure. Another points out "You're Sure—It's Pure" for the Y. W. C. A. pool is carefully tested by water-purification engineers, from the Atlanta waterworks, and the chlorinator system used in all Y. W. C. A. pools further insures purity and cleanliness. Everyone going in the Y pool is required to have a physical examination by one of the Y doctors and also to take a warm, soapy shower just before entering the pool. Suits are furnished by the Y.

The rates on private lessons have been reduced, with private lessons, which are given by appointment, now costing $1.50 each or six for $8. These lessons are given when no one else is in the pool and the quietness and privacy enable a timid swimmer to learn quickly and easily. The pool is open for practice and dips from 11 to 1 and 4:30 to 6:30 every day except Saturday. Children may enjoy dips, 10 cents each, from 2:30 to 3:30 on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays, and from 10:30 to 12 o'clock Saturday mornings.

The Y physicians are Dr. Maude Foster, 515 Hunt building; Dr. Stuart Shipley, 419 Doctors' building; and Dr. George Williams at 126 Forrest avenue. The fee for the examination is 50 cents payable at the Y information desk at 74 Auburn avenue. Appointment should be made with the doctors at their office.

LaGuardia Accuses G.O.P. Of Early Pledge Breaking

WASHINGTON, June 17.—(AP) Representative LaGuardia, republican, New York, said today his party is doing "something new in the history of politics" by breaking a platform pledge before an election. LaGuardia quoted to newspapermen the plank beginning "we believe in the principle of high wages."

"That being so," he said, "when Representative Snell, the permanent chairman and republican leader returns, we should strike the wage cut for federal employees out of the economy bill."

"With that platform of course there could now be no reduction in wages during a republican administration."

Pola Negri's Exotic Beauty and Fascination Likened to Depth and Sweep of Chopin Music

Pola Negri, famous movie and stage star, is shown above in an interview with Ralph McGill, of The Constitution, in which she announced her plans to retire and devote herself to charitable works after three more years of work. Her views on marriage, her work and her decision never to marry again are given in the interview. Staff photo by Bill Mason.

BY RALPH MCGILL

There is something of the depth and the sweep of Chopin's music in the ravishingly beautiful Pola Negri, here for a theatrical engagement.

There was once, I think, some of the madeness and the gypsiness of the Hungarian gypsy dances in her being, too. Now and then they appear brief, flitting across her face, as if running like laughter through her voice.

But for the most part the music of the great Polish composer would fit this little woman who came from a rich aristocratic family in Poland to become one of America's movie idols; one of those women whose peculiar beauty and exotic fascination labeled them as "vampires" on the screen.

There is all the majesty and changing appeal of a sweeping Polonaise in some of her moods. When she talks of some things; of her thwarted love for a home and children, and of her unswerving belief in a destiny that is directing her very move, there is something of the calmness and the address of a Chopin nocturne played by that great Pole, Ignace Paderewski.

Sitting there as we talked she appeared to be all they have said of her—glorious, beautiful, fascinating, clever and intelligent. All the adjectives already used to describe her are legitimate. There might be others brought forth and used, because she is more than they have said.

Still a Mystery. Pola Negri is still something of a mystery even to Hollywood. She has not had too many pictures. The public still feels that there is more to her than they have learned of the others.

Hollywood has thrown about itself so much that is false that most any sentiment expressed by those who have achieved stardom does not ring of anything except publicity or the desire for it.

Yet, somehow, Pola Negri seemed more of a genuine woman than a movie star; more of a real person than some automaton on the screen; more of a normal person than some character played by the publicity typewriters and the characters played on the screen.

She paused and thought a bit. "I am sure it is wrong," she said, "for one artist to marry another. When the artist is the wife she comes home tired, because one must work hard. But the husband is happy, to make her comfortable and happy, to make her forget her work. But the husband is expecting the same thing. That is why it is impossible for two artists to marry and escape some trouble or disaster."

She paused and thought a bit. "I am sure it is wrong," she said, "for one artist to marry another. When the artist is the wife she comes home tired, because one must work hard. But the husband is happy, to make her comfortable and happy, to make her forget her work. But the husband is expecting the same thing. That is why it is impossible for two artists to marry and escape some trouble or disaster."

Reviewing the Shows

Pola Negri in Person Today at Paramount

Pola Negri in person, the exotic star of the screen, appears today at the Paramount theater, opening a week of appearances at every performance. She will present a short sketch entitled "So This Is Love," written by Jack Lait, and will sing "Paradise," the song she made famous in her latest picture, "A Woman Commands."

The new screen feature at the Paramount is "Thunder Below," the story of the rivalry of three men for the love of the only white woman in the set. Principal roles are taken by Tallulah Bankhead, Charles Bickford, Paul Lukas and Ralph Forbes.

The regular RKO vaudeville program is headlined by Frank Libuse, the colonel of American nuts, and also includes Krugel and Robles and Chappelle and Carleton.

Adolphe Korzan and the "Paramount concert orchestra" use Miss Negri's song, "Paradise," as the theme of their overture, while short screen subjects of customary excellence complete the program.

New Georgia Feature Is Daring "Mouthpiece"

"Mouthpiece" is the daring story that exposes the truth about the tricks and subterfuges of an unscrupulous lawyer, one who works for the forces of the underworld and whose chicanery is the mainstay of their ability to avoid paying the penalty for their crimes, is the new attraction, starting today, at the Georgia theater.

This is the picture that roused a storm of protests when it was first released but which is shown exactly as made, because it is admitted, even by those who object most strenuously to its exposure, to be true to life.

Warren William, a magnificent actor, plays the part of the crooked lawyer, while Sidney Fox, one of the most popular of the younger generation of screen players, plays the leading feminine role. Miss Fox is reported as doing more polished acting in this picture than in any in which she has yet appeared.

Special newsreel shots of the G. O. P. convention at Chicago and other excellent short subjects complete the bill.

"Society Girl," Fox Film, Stars Dunn, Shannon

"Society Girl," feature picture on today's new program at the Fox theater, stars James Dunn with Peggy Shannon in the leading feminine role. Dunn proves again his natural charming self, this time as a raw lad aspiring to be middleweight ring champion of the world, while Miss Shannon is exquisite as the wild and reckless society girl who lets the unsophisticated boy make love to her, much to the detriment of his fighting prospects. Spencer Tracy as the manager of the boxer contributes one of his finest pieces of character delineation to the picture.

Arthur Lake, one of the most popular juveniles on the screen, appears at the Fox in person this week. He is the motivating cause for the Fanchon and Marco stage offering, which is called "Arthur Lake and His Hollywood Relations." Young Lake acts

LIVINGSTON & CO.

NEW YORK, June 17.—There was too much stock offered around June 4 highs for the market to absorb in the absence of constructive business news. The failure of the cotton market to rally after the close of the rails left the market open to bearish pressure but this did not develop and it was not until the wheat market broke that the cotton market broke.

The cotton market was not able to weather operations, had a contradictory bearish effect, together with New York stock market downturns.

Wheat closed nervous at nearly the day's low, 1-7-8 to 2-1-8 cents under yesterday's finish, corn 1-1-4 to 2-2-4 cents, oats 1-4 to 1-2 off and provisions 2 to 7 cents up.

...some liquidation, the deciding factor. We believe the upside of the market is small, despite temporary setbacks. The reaction seems entirely technical and not in any way connected with forced liquidation. We look for renewed strength to develop and to rise between 2 and 3 points on the average under present levels. The market is very much a trading affair and will remain so until business improves. The market is very much a trading affair and will remain so until business improves. The market is very much a trading affair and will remain so until business improves.

NEW YORK, June 11.—(Continued from page 1.)—The market for grain was unsettled and somewhat irregular in trading because some of the leading exporters were not so sure of the demand for their products as they were a few days ago. TARZAN AND THE ANT MEN No. 126

Lady Greystone moved toward her supposed husband, her arms outstretched. But suddenly there came a scream and someone was between them, holding them apart. It was Flora Hawkes. "He ain't your husband!" she cried. "It's Miranda, the Spaniard, as sure as I'm alive!"

The devoted Flora talked rapidly on: "Don't you suppose I'd know that fellow in a million? Wasn't he part of my gang in London when I had that wicked plan to find Lord Greystone's jewel mines?" "Flora!" cried Lady Greystone, distractedly, "are you SURE?"

"Sure!" replied Flora Hawkes. "The minute she stepped into the room and smiled, I KNEW!" "No! No! You must be wrong," cried Lady Greystone. "John! Tell me it is you!" The man before them swayed to and fro, as in weakness.

"Possibly I have changed," he faltered, "but I am Lord Greystone." "He lies. Flora speaks the truth," said a quiet voice behind them. A giant white man stood in the open French window. Then with a glad cry, Lady Greystone ran toward the speaker. Tarn of the Alps sprang forward and covered her lips with kisses.

THE END.

Lowett Shouse Leads Van

Of Democrats to Chicago

National Chairman Predicts "More Specific Declaration in Platform on Prohibition Issue.

BY D. HAROLD OLIVER.
CHICAGO, June 17.—(AP)—The vanguard of democracy's hosts began arriving in Chicago today for their battle royal over organization and the presidential nomination and with one of its leaders confidently predicting adoption of a plank favoring abolition of the question of prohibition repeal.

Moving into headquarters just vacated by the republicans, J. J. Shouse, chairman of the democratic national executive committee, immediately began arranging for his party's as members of the convention resolutions committee. The purpose will be to draw up as far as possible a tentative program for the coming September, but its action is necessarily ill-futural since the convention itself must set up the resolutions committee. Forty members already have been designated, Shouse said.

He added the national committee will meet next Friday afternoon to hear contests. Minor party candidates are already making a play for the platform, with Roosevelt and Smith, Porto Rico also will have C. Roosevelt-Smith fight, while Louisiana's two delegations will grapple over the legality of the Huey Long's re-election of twenty believed to favor Roosevelt.

Shouse said there might be a fight in the convention over the wording of the prohibition plank, but he thought most of the differences will be smoothed out in advance.

passed long enough to challenge the republican prohibition plank as "imperial interference with the right to elect a specific" democratic declaration on this subject.

Other democratic leaders are expected to appear at the convention, including James A. Farley, campaign manager for Franklin D. Roosevelt, who has been dropped from the ticket by other candidates for the presidential nomination who have delegates pledged to him.

Headquarters for Speaker Garner have been established for some time at the Hotel Hamilton and the rooms in the Congress are understood to have been reserved for Governor Roosevelt in event he decides to come to Chicago before the convention is over.

E. E. Smith, 1928 standard bearer for the anti-prohibition faction this year, is expected by the middle of next week, as is Governor Albin K. S. Wicker of Maryland, another candidate.

Receiving newsmen at his headquarters, Shouse said his name would be a factor in the fight for permanent Chastity. The Roosevelt prohibition plank had been received, he said, adding most of them were "for the anti-prohibition side" with the trend toward repeal.

He said the republican plank called for submission of a substitute for the anti-prohibition plank. Conventions could not "possibly be more confusing."

Shouse favored the democratic declaration would not put the party on record as favoring repeal, but that it would favor submission of the question to the states. He was returning the question to the states.

"Who's going to be the democratic candidate?" he asked.

"I wish you would tell me," Shouse replied.

He said he thought there was a "much greater liberal tendency in our prohibition in the south than heretofore." In view of "recent action" in Virginia, North Carolina, Texas, Florida and Virginia.

"I think the southern states this year will vote the democratic ticket," he said.

The executive committee chairman said suggestions for a farm relief bill would be made.

of Montana, as their candidate for his post, and since Shouse has been recognized as aligned with the Roosevelt opposition the first test of the New Yorker's convention strength will come on this issue.

Shouse declined to predict what the outcome might be. Farley, here last week, says that if Shouse's nomination would win and added the Roosevelt forces would not have proposed his name, then the federal government majority vote to put him over would be lacking.

The democrats will hold an informal meeting next Thursday at the hotel designated so far by state delegations great a number as those on prohibition, and the generalists they favored the qualification fee principle.

Shouse's interview came shortly after Garner for President headquarters issued a statement by State Senator Walter F. Woodul, of Houston, saying:

"In the light of recent publicity, Mr. Garner is in much better position with the rank and file of the voters than is Mr. Roosevelt, and he is in a position to be elected without making a strenuous campaign."

Woodul charged the Roosevelt forces with "gross misrepresentation" of the permanent chairmanship squabble.

insou put them to sleep with his keynote address on Tuesday, would not be followed. They continued to move about the floor shaking hands, swapping telephone numbers, straightening out their program, and so on, in an effort to show their admiration of the May Thurstin.

The coronation was accompanied by a demonstration spontaneous as a coronation, and as such, ending as a second honeymoon. For a part of an hour the delegates tore into the crowd, shouting and dancing at a mad pace of a Vassar daisy-chainer with fallen aches, and with the frenzied energy of a guy going to pay February's rent.

The demonstration started when Hiram H. Hiram, the king of the clingstone-puff-bleed, the one whose name I did not catch, but who could be identified anywhere by a set of teeth, a pair of eyes, and a nose, and just as tangled. As this gentleman ended his speech with a give the crowd a hand, the king of the three years has stood on the bridge of the ship of state without a raincoat, and a regal from the crowd yawned, two from Mississippi stretched, and one from Idaho bent over, which had gone to sleep, upon the floor.

The riot was on. There was no stopping it now. For as fast as delegates tried to retreat, they awakened their sleeping neighbors, who, in turn, awakened their neighbors.

Angered, Fes apparently decided to teach the delegates a lesson. He hurried from the platform to the rear of the room, unlocked the door, formed a regiment of trombone players into the crowded stadium. It requires no vivid imagination to picture the effect of a regiment of trombones, trombone-equipped, can create a dense crowd; especially 75 trombone players who play the wrong notes upon playing, and the crowd calls for but one note, and that a tremendous forward lunge with the slide.

At this point the crowd of the unionists rose straight toward the spot where the crowd was thickest. When they were but ten paces away from the trombone players, the king of the "Men," he said in a voice choked with emotion, "the honor of the republican party is at stake. This union is at stake. I expect every man to do his duty. Now codd those pieces!"

At this point, the regiment drew deep breath, and the crowd "oomph" and the slides were ready for the forward stab, or "oomph."

their slumber with loud and vigorous complaints. This confusion was increased when Senator Foss signalled to a workman high in the rafters to release huge crates of balloons. The minutes the balloons struck the heads of the delegates, they exploded, frightening everybody, especially the Chicago delegates, who threw up their hats and tossed their wallets on the floor.

Fearing that the convention's record would today piece together a story of obstruction all week was about to be broken, Senator Foss quieted the platform by appealing to the delegates.

But the delegates, fully awake now for the first time since Senator Dick-

"And don't fire until you see a bay window you can't miss."

There was a tremendous "poomph" as the trombonists fired their first round. This was followed almost immediately by a mighty "pomp," as the pieces were relayed. Then the deadly "poomph" again.

When the South Dakota delegation, which occupied the front line, fell on the first blast. New Mexico was next to-go. And then Georgia, Texas, New Hampshire and New York.

Finally, there was not a delegate standing.

"I regret, my children, is how order was restored in the national republican convention.

Cripple Starved by Mother, Brother To Drive Out Devils, Molier, Brother Reveal

BALTIMORE, June 17.—(AP)—Health officer today pieced together a story of the starving to death of a 68-year-old cripple by his mother and brother "to drive out devils that possessed him."

The mother, a cripple herself, told their health officer away from the house saying "God work Dakota delegation" was arrested with her son.

"God knows all about this," the health officer. Paul H. Smith, 39, a college graduate, was arrested with the mother and brother.

ness, has told yesterday.

His fiancée, however, recorded that death occurred April 4 and predicted that "he will arise from the dead" June 24.

The cripple, Grant Aubel, was found by officers investigating his disappearance in a ditch near the railroad tracks. The mother, Mrs. Annie Aubel, 55, who a few days before had turned a her son's body into a coffin, said she and said they had been married just one day since March 20 because the Lord told us to starve him to drive out the devils."

Put on April 3 "the Lord told me to bind him hand and foot and cast him into outer darkness and I did as the Lord said. I chewed the strings and I tied him again. He died the next morning."

13-Year-Old Explorer Starts South Sea Trip
CHICAGO, June 17.—(P) Thirteen-year-old Harold De Gerdal is going to see if he can find some canibals and he hopes they'll be friendly.

He leaves today alone on a 17,000-mile trip to the Fiji Islands.

But going places and doing things are not new experiences for the boy. Last year he made a trip to the arctic circle, unaccompanied.
